

REGIONAL SUPPORT OFFICE THE BALI PROCESS

Partnership Projects

The Regional Support Office of the Bali Process (RSO) collaborates with Bali Process Members and other key stakeholders and provides funding for significant projects and activities of direct relevance.

United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) & RSO Screening and Referral Toolkit

A project in partnership with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) Bureau for Asia and Pacific.

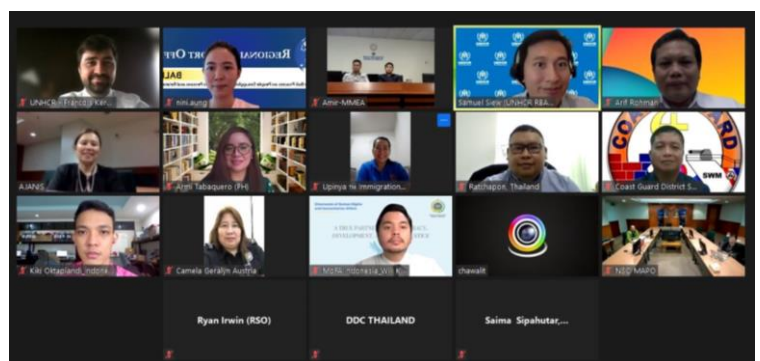

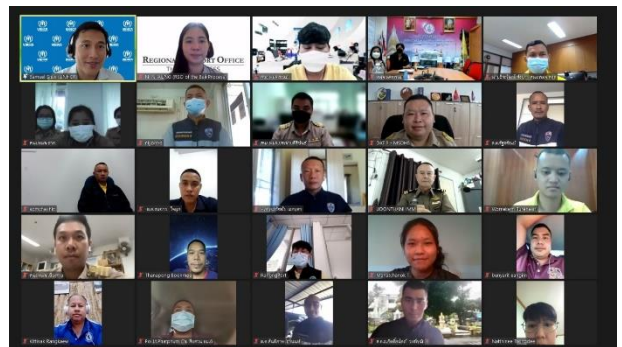

This project aims to develop a "screening and referral toolkit (mobile application)" for border officials to effectively screen people with specific needs and vulnerabilities in a mixed migration context.

The toolkit's development was advised by 15 national experts from Bali Process Member States – Thailand, Malaysia, Philippines, and Indonesia. The toolkit provides tips for communication, a visual questionnaire, a screening checklist, and schematic referral pathways to communicate with vulnerable individuals and provide effective assistance.

In 2021, RSO and UNHCR jointly trained 196 officials from Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia, and the Philippines on how to use the toolkit while also recognizing good practices and challenges associated with a technological solution for the screening of vulnerable individuals.

In 2022, the RSO and UNHCR will use toolkit as a training tool for Bali Process Member States and will further explore interest of the Bali Process Member States in a field roll-out.

The UNHCR RSO Screening and Referral Toolkit is available for download on Apple and Google Play stores.

Supporting Sustainable Returns in Bali Process Member States - Sharing Lessons Learned from AVRR Data and Indicators

A project in partnership with International Organization for Migration (IOM)

This project aims to share good practices for the management of return and reintegration among the Bali Process Member States based on the experiences of individuals whose returns were facilitated through the Assisted Voluntary Return and Reintegration (AVRR) Program administered by IOM.

The project surveyed 120 migrants (81 men, 39 women) on their reintegration experience in four countries: Mongolia, Nepal, Pakistan, and Vietnam in 2021. The findings from the survey were analyzed against the Bali Process Policy Guide on Return and Reintegration to promote the use of evidence and tools for the management of sustainable return in Bali Process Member States.

In 2022, the RSO and IOM will continue the engagement with Bali Process Member States to monitor the assisted voluntary returns under the AVRR Program and to expand support for return migration as a tool for well-managed migration.

The Bali Process Policy Guide on Return and Reintegration provides guidance which states can use to build their own policies on returns and reintegration, in accordance with their own country context. The RSO and IOM will continue to engage with Bali Process Member States to monitor the assisted voluntary returns under the AVRR Program and to expand support for return migration as a tool for well-managed migration.

Practitioner Guide Series on Improving the Protection of Trafficking Victims

The RSO published the Practitioner Guide Series on improving the Protection of Trafficking Victims in partnership with the NEXUS Institute in 2021. The Practitioner Guide Series provides concrete and practical guidance on what practitioners can do to improve trafficking victim protection. As a series, these Practitioner Guides offer a comprehensive and holistic overview of key issues and challenges in protecting adult and child trafficking victims in a succinct and accessible format and offer guidance for practitioners and policymakers to address them.

In 2022, the first four Practitioner Guide Series will be complemented by a facilitator guide to pilot training for Bali Process Member States.

The Practitioner guide series is available in English, Vietnamese, Bahasa, and Malay for download here.

Two more practitioner guides: special measure for victim witness and support for access to remedies will be produced in 2023.
